Norma; or a Politicians Love and St. Johns Night are probably two of Ibsens least known plays. Norma is a satirical opera published anonymously in the literary magazine Andhrimmer in 1851. The play was designed as a dramatic parody of Vincenzo Bellinis opera Norma, in which the characters are portrayed as central figures in the political life of contemporary Norway. St. Johns Night is a fairy-tale comedy that takes place during a midsummer feast on a farm in Telemark. It is inspired by many sources, most notably A Midsummer Nights Dream by William Shakespeare, and has many of the same themes. This translation has been specially prepared for use by The Online Stage in their Ibsen project, in which all twenty-six plays by the master will be recorded.
